
Read Full Article link broken

Posted by DaveAlberon - 2008/04/16 09:29

Hi,

I downloaded Feed2Post v2.2 today, but found the following problem:

SEO URLs are enabled on the site. The URL of the article created is:

<http://iffley/joomla/our-news-and-events/1-our-news/25-server-side-javascript>

The "Read Full Article" link is "components/com_feedpost/feedpost.php?url=...", which the browser sees as

"http://iffley/joomla/our-news-and-events/1-our-news/components/com_feedpost/feedpost.php?url=..." - so it doesn't work.

All the other links generated by Joomla start "/joomla/..." correctly.

How do I fix this?

Thanks,
Dave

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by movilla - 2008/04/17 15:20

Hmm, yes, seems like a code problem, I'll get it fixed for the next version release.

Which version do you use ?

Best regards,
Mario

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by DaveAlberon - 2008/04/18 03:08

v2.2 that I downloaded yesterday.

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by shegeek - 2008/04/18 06:07

Mario,
I am using 2.2 and it is broken in there.

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by shegeek - 2008/04/18 06:51

I should have read the post a little better :blush: before I posted the last message.

When processing the feeds through the Post All function, the link back is not displayed. My global config is set up to include this. The link does display if you manually process an individual feed. However, it no longer opens in a new window. It opens it in the same window, which isn't something we really want to have happen. We want to keep our members on our site in the main window and navigate offsite in a new window.

Is it possible to disable the template and use the old style?

=====

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by DaveAlberon - 2008/04/24 08:19

Hi,

Thanks for fixing that.

Not nearly as important but I noticed the same thing happens when you click the Configuration link in the message right after installing feed2post (it goes to /administrator/... instead of /siteroot/administrator/...

Cheers,
Dave

=====

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by zandstra - 2008/04/24 12:42

hi I am using the 2-2-1 version and J got the same problem

=====

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by movilla - 2008/04/25 08:33

Hi, sorry for the big delay on this answers, I've been working a lot into the site's systems and all that, so It's been hard for me and I couldn't answer the forums for a while.

Can you send me the details of your problem with the 2.2.1 version ? this issue should be cleared as that version release, also, please tell me if using the disable iframe option you get all fixed (just to know if that option works as expected.)

Best regards,
Mario

=====

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by zandstra - 2008/04/27 13:58

Hi
i have tested with 3 links. In one of them i had iframe enabled. They all came out with no "read full article"
you can see the in attached iamge:

=====

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by zandstra - 2008/04/27 14:03

hi again . sending the image here

=====

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by movilla - 2008/04/29 15:35

Seems like the image got lost, I don't get any image, but I'll check the code for post-all seems like there is something missing there...thanks for the report, sorry for the delay on the reply.

It's been a tough week...

Best regards,
Mario

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by movilla - 2008/05/12 18:00

To all the users who had problems with linkback and the iframe template, please try this solution:

In joomla 1.5.1 or newer versions the $live_site variable was removed at the config file. To solve this issue, please edit your configuration.php file and add the line:

```
var $live_site="http://whateveryourwebsiteis/fullpath/to/joomla/";
```

add that line just above the closing } and your problem should be solved from that moment and on.

This should solve the problems on version 2.2.1 and newer, if no $live_site is set, the links will be pointing to anywhere but the right place...

Best regards,
Mario

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by jaisonb - 2008/07/22 22:28

Hello.. I've just installed feed2post today and have come across this same issue. I tried editing the config file as described but no luck. I actually ended up with a blank page.

Then I realized there was a var $live_site=' ' on line 19 and tried entering the path there..no luck.. then only at the end..no luck. The link for the "Read Full Article" still does not contain the correct path.

Help Please!

Joomla 1.5.3
Feed2Post 2.5 (downloaded this morning)

Thanks!

Re:Read Full Article link broken

Posted by movilla - 2008/08/05 12:32

The fix works with joomla 1.5, the problem is that this fix won't fix the already posted items, those are already joomla content, you'll have to manually edit the links and add the correct path. The new posts will get the right url and work as expected.}

Best regards, sorry for the delay.

Mario

