
Creation Date Feature not reflected in CronJob

Posted by Sept_de_Neuf - 2008/06/20 14:58

Hello,

I really like your component and have it set up perfectly the way I want it.

I have the "Set feed date as created date" option to yes and this works great when posting within the Feed2Post control panel.

However, the problem lies when using a Cronjob, it changes all the feeds' creation dates to today's date or the day the feed was processed by the CronJob.

It seems that the CronJob doesn't work the same as the control panel or it ignores the settings in the control panel.

Any help you can afford me would be greatly appreciated.

Yes, cronjob as the current one is not using the features of feed2post 1.6.2 or 2.4.4 it only posts the articles... I have one version that will make use of this new features, but needs testing and I'd like some help...if you'd like to join the beta testers...I'd appreciate it and you'll be getting all softwares first...

Best regards,
Mario

Hi,
If you check the creation date, please look at the finish date too.
When using cron it is set to "never expire" while it is set to a specific date. It works oke when I use the f2p panel.
May be it has something to do with the post it all feature. That's not working either, All feeds are published and cheked and work when posting one by one.

Good luck with this great component

Thank you for the tip, I'll be checking it, it's been a long time since you asked, I'm terribly sorry for this, we are working on the new feed2post with lots of new features...and a new site and new services...a lot of new things will be available soon...

We'll take the steps to fix your problems on the next release, which will be very soon if all goes as planned.

Best regards, thanks for your patience.

Mario
